Mariner-2 Reported As A-Okay

Critical Course Change Executed With Success

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Mankind ventured on his "first major step into the exploration of the planets" today as America's Mariner-2 sped toward a close rendezvous with Venus that could unravel ageless mysteries of the universe.

The spectacular spacecraft became the most successful interplanetary probe yet known Tuesday night by perfectly executing a critical change-of-course maneuver and hurtling on-target beyond a million and a half miles in space.

The feat also could give the United States a resounding space-age triumph over Russia and might discover some unknown form of life existing beneath the planet's perpetual wreath of strange clouds.

Tuesday night's "midcourse maneuver" was described by United States scientists as being so successful that Mariner-2 was reported on a trajectory that would take it nearer Venus than expected—within 9,000 miles. Plans had called for a "fly by" exploration at 10,000 miles.

Scientists' Hopes Soar

Scientists at Cal Tech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), guiding and tracking the 447-pound instrument-laden Mariner, conceded it still had "a very long way to go" on its epochal 180-million mile journey.

But the successful execution of the crucial "midcourse maneuver" sent their hopes soaring for a historic success.

"We're going great at the moment," said Mariner-2 project Director Jack James, "and it appears we have a huge success." Dr. William Pickering, chief of the propulsion laboratory and a leading figure in the U.S. space program since the first Explorer entered orbit in 1958, also expressed optimism.

"This is the first major step in the exploration of the planets," he said. "We're reaching way out beyond earth which is necessary for future exploration of the solar system by mankind."

Light Damage In Second Utah Quake

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Salt Lake Valley was jolted by an earthquake this morning for the second time in a week, but damage was reported light.

Windows were reported broken in several buildings of downtown Salt Lake City, the roof collapsed on a residence of the city's west side, and a crack was reported in a street in the southern part of the city.

The quake was felt in varying degrees of intensity approximately from Provo, Utah, on the south to Logan, Utah, on the north, a distance of approximately 145 miles. However, the tremor appeared strongest in Salt Lake City.

Last Thursday a rolling earthquake caused extensive damage in the Cache Valley of northern Utah.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Administration officials said today that U.S. planes would continue to patrol international waters near the Soviet Union but with added precautions against straying off course.

Shah Visits Villagers in Quake Area

DARISFAHAN, Iran (UPI)—The Shah of Iran walked through earthquake shattered sections of his country today comforting villagers who had lost all their worldly possessions and grimly promising them help.

An elderly, weeping woman sprawled before him on the ground and kissed the shah's feet as he entered the stricken village of Boen.

"Do not do that, please," he said gently as he helped her from the ground.

"I have lost all I had, O Father of the Nation," the woman sobbed. "My husband, two sons and four daughters, and my two brothers with all their nine children."

Pointing at a heap of rubble she said, "This is my home. I have nothing but you."

"You do not have to worry," the shah said. "We will build a home for you and do all we can."

Then he went on to other victims. He was expected to camp amid Boen's ruins tonight and continue to other areas Thursday.

Four days after a devastating tremor ravaged the countryside west of Tehran, there was little hope of finding more survivors. The exact number of bodies buried under the vast stretches of crushed rock and mud probably never will be known.

A spokesman for Premier Assadollah Alam said there were "20,000 killed and seriously injured" in the tragedy that flattened centuries-old villages last weekend.

Declaration by President on New Situation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk invited the ambassadors of the Latin American governments to meet with him this afternoon to discuss the threat posed by the Soviet-aided arms build-up in Cuba.

Ben Bella Says Crisis Is Finished

ALGIERS (UPI)—Socialist Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella emerged stronger than ever in control of Algeria today as a result of his victory over dissident military leaders in Algiers.

The 54-year-old revolutionary leader signaled his triumph with the announcement Tuesday night that "the Political Bureau is resuming its tasks in Algiers."

Earlier leaders of Military District Four, who opposed the civilian Political Bureau headed by Ben Bella, announced that their troops had left Algiers in the face of increasing pressure from advancing forces loyal to the Political Bureau.

"The crisis is definitely finished," Ben Bella told an estimated 4,000 cheering Algerians in the city's Forum. "This day is considered a new day of independence."

Reliable sources said the Political Bureau and Military Districts Four and Three had worked out an accord making Algiers an "open" or undefended city, removing the threat of further fighting in the capital. The agreement was said to include a cease-fire on the approaches to Algiers where Ben Bella troops have been advancing.

The Political Bureau's first task was to plan the nation's first parliamentary elections. Elections had been scheduled for Sept. 2, but Ben Bella canceled them because of his dispute with the military leaders.

The crisis began Aug. 25 when Ben Bella fled Algiers after Military District Four commanders took over the city. It ended abruptly Tuesday afternoon when the vice premier dramatically returned to the capital.

Encountered Severe Winds

The U. S. reply said the pilot had reported he was flying "a directed course well outside Soviet territorial waters but encountered severe winds" and therefore might have flown over the southern tip of Sakhalin.

"If the pilot of the aircraft in question did in fact violate Soviet territory," the note said, "this act was entirely unintentional and due solely to a navigational error under extremely difficult flying conditions."

The American note was described as a "reply or explanation" rather than an apology by U.S. officials.

Eisenhower Stopped Overflights
The note added that U.S. policy on reconnaissance flights over Russia had not been altered since President Kennedy stated on Jan. 25, 1961 that they had been suspended and he had ordered they not be resumed.

The Eisenhower administration ended the U2 flights designed to penetrate Soviet territory after Francis Gary Powers' plane was downed in Russia on May 1, 1960, touching off an international furor that blew up the Paris summit conference.

Rusk's action came as a follow up to President Kennedy's declaration that the United States will use whatever means necessary to prevent the Castro regime from using Soviet arms to threaten other countries in the Western Hemisphere.

Kennedy indicated that the weapons so far supplied to the Fidel Castro regime were on a defensive nature. He warned Russia and Cuba that the United States and other hemisphere countries would "make sure" that the increased armaments would not be used offensively.

The President issued a statement Tuesday night that was intended to inform the American public on the extent of the Soviet-Cuban arms flow. It also served the purpose of notifying Russia and Cuba of the official U.S. position toward the Caribbean developments.

The statement was issued after Kennedy met with congressional leaders of both parties.

Kennedy's statement climaxed a week of reports — which the White House denied — that actual Soviet "troops" had arrived in Cuba.

Today, Kennedy met with Democratic congressional leaders at a customary weekly breakfast session to review the Cuban situation. Afterward, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield expressed belief that Republicans will not try to make Cuba or other foreign policy matters issues in this year's congressional campaigns.

Kennedy emphasized in his statement that the "Cuban question" was part of the worldwide Communist threat to peace. He said it must be dealt with in that light as well as in its application to the Western Hemisphere.

He stated the U.S. view this way:

"It continues to be the policy of the United States that the Castro regime will not be allowed to export its aggressive purposes by force or the threat of force. It will be prevented by whatever means may be necessary from taking action against any part of the Western Hemisphere."

Kennedy said Soviet aid to Cuba had included:

Sec. Dillon Backs Off Tax Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon has decided against asking Congress to prohibit or limit tax deductions for interest payments, it was learned today.

About 18.7 million taxpayers claimed deductions of $8.4 billion on their tax returns last year for interest they had paid, primarily on home mortgages.

Reports have circulated for some time that the administration's 1963 tax reform package might include a proposal to deny deductions for interest, or at least to limit them.

But responsible Treasury officials said today this has been ruled out. Nor will there be any proposal to change the present deductibility of state and local property taxes, it was said.

Wants Loopholes Closed

President Kennedy has said he will ask Congress next year to cut taxes across the board, for individuals and corporations. He also said he would ask the lawmakers to close certain loopholes in the tax code.

By closing the loopholes, the administration hopes to reduce the revenue loss resulting from rate reduction and to introduce a greater element of equal tax treatment for taxpayers.

Among the more controversial areas of tax reform getting intensive scrutiny in the Treasury are capital gains, depletion allowances and stock options.

Tax Bill Near Final Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate leaders looked forward to completing action today on President Kennedy's much-amended tax revision bill.

Democratic chiefs were reported to have the votes necessary to sidetrack the most troublesome of two remaining amendments. With these two roadblocks out of the way, the Senate was expected to approve the measure before the day is over.

Administration sources said a majority of senators present would vote to table an amendment that would allow professional and other self-employed persons to take tax deductions of up to $1,750 a year to set up their own retirement plans.

MOSCOW (UPI)—A group of 48 Southern California agriculturists who grow 50 of the major crops produced in their state arrived Tuesday night for a week-long tour of Soviet farm facilities.

Deportation of Soblen Thursday

LONDON (UPI)—The British government turned down runaway spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen's last-ditch appeal today and announced he will be deported to the United States Thursday aboard a New York-bound Pan American jetliner.

The 61-year-old psychiatrist, convicted of spying for the Soviet Union and jumping $100,000 bail in New York when he fled to Israel in June, will be accompanied by a medical attendant.

Pan American World Airways said it had been informed of a booking for Soblen Thursday.

In turning down Soblen's last plea, the British government had ordered him deported "as soon as practicable."

Home Secretary Henry Brooke rejected Soblen's final appeal that he be allowed to stay in Britain or be permitted to go to Communist Czechoslovakia.

After the Home Office decision was announced, one of Soblen's lawyers said there was nothing more that could be done here although an effort will be made in the United States to have President Kennedy review the case.

In a statement issued from Brixton Prison, where he has been held during most of the period of his hard fight to stave off deportation, Soblen thanked British officials for their kindness in his behalf and repeated his contention that he is innocent of the spy charges.

Brooke's decision climaxed the drama that began here when Soblen cut his wrists and stabbed himself in the stomach while aboard an El Al Israeli Airlines plane en route to the United States in June after Israel ousted him for entering on a false passport.

Soblen was given medical treatment in a hospital and then later transferred to Brixton Prison Hospital from which he carried on his unsuccessful legal fight that ended today.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon Tuesday described a speech of Gov. Edmund G. Brown as part of a "smear-a-day campaign which has no basis in fact."

The Republican gubernatorial candidate referred to Brown's campaign kickoff Tuesday in which the governor said in a San Francisco speech that Nixon "is against everything and for nothing."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Herbert Hoover, 88, recuperating from surgery for removal of a cancerous tumor in his large intestine last week, continued to improve today.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 35-year-old Sherman Oaks chiropractor was convicted of second-degree murder Tuesday for treating an 8-year-old cancer victim with iodine water and vitamin pills.

Dr. Marvin Phillips was found guilty by a jury of eight women and four men of murder by misrepresentation. Dep. Dist. Atty. John W. Miner termed the verdict, "the greatest blow yet struck by the law against cancer quackery."

State Lottery Submitted

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A state lottery initiative measure was submitted Tuesday to Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk's office.

The initiative to create a state lottery was submitted for titling by the California State Control Lottery Fund, described as a private non-profit group.

Robert Willis Wilson, 36, of Pasadena, head of the group, said such a lottery would reduce the amount of per capita state taxes to "attract industry back to California."

A five-man lottery commission to administer the sale of $1 lottery tickets by about 106 agencies would be created under the initiative.

public of Armenia, and Baku on the Black Sea.

"The main reason is these cities are located in areas which have agricultural conditions similar to those in Central and Southern California," Steinberg said.

"We believe full stomachs will be a contribution to world peace. We're here to exchange ideas with Soviet farmers."

The group, whose tour was arranged under the People-to-People Program, was scheduled to visit the Kremlin and other Moscow sights today and to meet Soviet agricultural officials.

They are scheduled to go to Yerevan Sept. 6, to Baku on Sept. 8, and to return to Moscow Sept. 10. Their 28-day European and Near Eastern tour also includes stops in Yugoslavia, Poland, East Germany, West Germany and Israel.

New York Stocks at Closing

NEW YORK (UPI)—The spotlight focused on electronics today as the stock market closed a bit lower.

Among miscellaneous blue chips Alcoa held a point gain most of the day but Procter & Gamble and United Aircraft were notably soft. Most major chemicals and oils swayed narrowly but Kodak gave up around 2 at its low before coming back a bit.

Steels were soft with losses ranging from small fractions in the pivots to around a point in Youngstown. Chrysler recaptured a point gain in a steady motor section after giving it up twice.

Glamor issues were sensitive and active but closed within a limited range featuring IBM, Crown Cork and Corning Glass on the weak side and Avnet and Texas Instrument among the gainers.

Juveniles in Homestead Burglaries

RANCHO MIRAGE — Palm Desert area juveniles who did a "neat" job of minor burglaries in homestead houses approximately three miles northeast of here have been apprehended, Indio sheriff's investigators reported today.

Five juveniles, apparently engaged in curiosity-minor burglary forays northeast of Clancy Lane approximately two weeks ago, Sunday and Monday, two juveniles returned to the area and entered the unoccupied cabin of Dr. Allen Whitnauer.

Two seabags full of small personal property taken from the cabin were recovered by sheriff's officers. Most of the equipment was of slight dollar value, officers reported, citing an old oil lamp as a typical example.

Investigating officers said police problems in the homestead area between Rancho Mirage and Ramon Road have been increased in recent weeks by blow sand which has obliterated private roads.

—The presence of offensive ground to ground missiles.

—Any other significant offensive capability either in Cuban hands or under Soviet direction.

The President's statement on Cuba, in addition to informing the American public and serving as a warning to Cuba and Russia, had another effect. It was obviously used to quiet some of the more excited areas of U.S. opinion, including some members of Congress who have recommended stern and rapid steps to stop the Soviet shipments bolstering Castro's military power.

Earlier in the day Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., told the Senate that 10 new shipments of Russian war materials were en route to Cuba as part of the buildup.

He also said that he had been unduly conservative last week in saying that 1,500 Soviet troops—not technicians—were in Cuba. The number he said, is closer to 5,000.

Following the White House conference with Kennedy, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., indicated that he generally agreed with the administration's assessment of conditions in Cuba.

"No doubt it would require a substantial modification of plans and equipment if (the buildup) were to become offensive," he said.

—Several Soviet-made motor torpedo boats "carrying ship to ship guided missiles having a range of 15 miles." It was assumed that Kennedy was speaking of electronically guided torpedoes.

—Approximately 3,500 Soviet military technicians are either in Cuba or en route there to assist in setting up and teaching the use of the new equipment.

Kennedy said the Soviet Union apparently was providing the extensive radar and other electronic equipment required for the operation of the anti-aircraft missiles.

He said there had been no evidence of:

—Any organized combat force in Cuba from any Soviet bloc country.

—A Russian military base in Cuba.

—A violation of the 1934 treaty

Third Burglary Suspect Guilty on Paint Store Job

Third suspect in the April burglary of the Palm Springs Paint store pleaded guilty in Judge Eugene Theriault's Municipal Court yesterday and was bound over to Superior Court in Indio for sentencing.

Daryl Singletary, 21, of Palm Springs was taken into custody in Lake Tahoe last week after two other suspects in the same burglary implicated him.

The other two, Ronald C. Blackman, 20, of Palm Springs, and Lonnie D. Collins, 20, of Cabazon, had previously appeared before Judge Theriault where they pleaded guilty and were bound over to Superior Court.

Detective James Teal, who worked on the case for the Palm Springs Police Department, said nearly all the $1,000 worth of paint and equipment taken from the North Indian Avenue store last April 24 has been recovered.

Local officers arrested Blackman Aug. 15, and Collins Aug. 26.

Skelton Horse Lost and Found

INDIO — A four-year-old chestnut horse belonging to the daughter of Comedian Red Skelton was found by officers here early this morning.

Skelton reported the missing steed shortly before 7 a.m. today to Palm Springs police who relayed the information to Indio authorities. The horse was reported to be 16 hands high, with four white feet and a white blaze on his face. He was reported missing from the Skelton confines at 37-715 Thomson Road, Tamarisk Country Club.

Two More Refugees Crash Wall

BERLIN (UPI) — Two young refugees crashed East Berlin border fortifications in a speeding truck and swam to safety in West Berlin under Communist gunfire today, West Berlin police reported.

Police said the unidentified men, aged 22 and 23, breached two barbed wire barriers, climbed a third barbed wire fence, jumped into a canal and swam for their lives to the American Zone under cover of darkness.

Western officials were concerned that the Communists might increase harassment of travel to West Berlin in retaliation for allied action in barring the Soviet war memorial guard from traveling through the American sector.

For the time being the West enjoyed a tactical victory over the Russians but there was no celebration.

Even while the Russians were complying with a Western order, reinforced by American troops at strategic crossing points, Russian fighters harassed Western transports in the Berlin corridors and East German guards shot another refugee at the wall dividing the city.

The Russians not only bowed Tuesday to a Western demand to keep their armored war memorial guard out of the American sector, but Soviet commander Gen. Ivan Jakubovsky said it would stay out in the future.

The Allies had told the Russians they must use the Sandkrug Bridge or Brandenburg Gate leading to their war memorial in the British Zone instead of going through Checkpoint Charlie in the American Zone.

For 17 hours no Soviet convoys approached the border. Then, on Tuesday night the Russians obeyed the Western order and sent its memorial guard over the Sandkrug Bridge which the Communists had restricted for use by Germans only.

The Western action was taken to prevent the Soviets from parading their armored guard through two miles of West Berlin territory en route to and from the memorial and possibly provoking more incidents.

Italy Will Try to Cut Dollar Drain

ROME (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was told today that Italy would try to reduce the U.S. overseas dollar drain by increased military equipment purchases in the United States, informed sources reported.

Johnson conferred with Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani and Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni on a number of topics including possible Italian aid to Greece and Italian-American cooperation in space projects.

The sources said the vice president was assured by Italian Leaders that they would give sympathetic consideration to an expected request for such aid from Greece.

They also agreed to consider increasing purchases of equipment for Italy's NATO forces from American manufacturers. It was pointed out that the American balance of payments problem still remains serious and that more Italian buying would offset some of the $106 million the United States spends annually in Italy for military purposes.

Hot Springs Chamber in Fund-Raiser

DESERT HOT SPRINGS — The amazing growth population-wise of the Coachella Valley during the last two decades was described in a speech at a fund raising dinner of the chamber of commerce Tuesday night.

Ole Nordlund Indio editor, told his audience that the number of children now enrolled in Coachella Valley schools now exceeds the population of the entire valley two decades ago.

The speaker urged that as many of the problems created by this great growth be solved at the grass roots level, if possible, asserting that local people who know the community can often do a far better job by themselves than by calling in state and national agents.

Phil Franklin, past president of the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce, was emcee for the program.

Two former Desert Hot Springs residents were sentenced Tuesday to 60 days in Indio County Jail and placed on three years probation for hotel and residential burglaries in the Desert Hot Springs area.

Thomas D. Morgan, 27, and Roger G. Clark, 21, were sentenced by Superior Court Judge Hilton McCabe on counts of taking hotel and residential furnishings from unoccupied structures earlier this spring and summer.

Reds Feed U2 Affair Into Propaganda Mill

United Press International MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union appeared determined today to grind maximum propaganda results from the new U2 affair and perhaps use it to pressure the West into concessions on Berlin.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was believed returning to Moscow to make a public statement.

Soviet commentators denounced the incident as a "gross violation" that cast doubt on President Kennedy's word.

The Soviet government threatened to take the issue to the United Nations General Assembly.

There was no indication that Soviet leaders were interested in chalking it off as a regrettable episode, although the Soviet man in the street reacted more in sorrow than in anger.

The Soviet note, handed to U.S. Charge d'Affaires John McSweeney, said the U2 spent nine minutes east of Yuzhno-Sakhalinsk, a city on the southern tip of Russia's Sakhalin Islands just north of Japan.

The United States replied quickly that an American plane may have flown "unintentionally" over the island.

So live that you help to answer the world's problems — not add to them.

New Mark For Springs Schools Seen

New enrollment records for the Palm Springs Unified School District will be set when an estimated 4,160 district pupils answer the starting bell Monday.

The opening enrollment is expected to be the lead-off for a swelling school population predicted for a 4,450 peak during the year. Peak enrollment usually is reached here in February, but last year was tallied in October.

"The 1962-63 school year appears headed for a solid gain, after an opening enrollment which will set the record," Dr. Warren Linville, district personnel chief, reported.

Top enrollment within the district will go to Palm Springs High School, where 1,300 students are expected Monday. Nellie N. Coffman Junior High School, serving all seventh and eighth grade pupils in the district, is expected to have 700 opening day enrollees, with 2,450 in the grades from kindergarten through grade six.

New Officer Joins Springs Police Force

Clare Farnsworth, 22, who placed second of 62 taking the June police examination for the Palm Springs department, joined the local force Aug. 30 as a patrolman.

Farnsworth, who came to the job from his home in Riverside, is the son of a noted member of the Riverside police force, Arthur B. Farnsworth who retired recently after 18 years on the force.

The younger Farnsworth, who attended Riverside Junior College where he took police science training, is now being oriented into the local department, according to Chief A. G. (Gus) Kettmann, who said he was very happy to have a man of Farnsworth's quality on the staff.

COVERUP

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Plows may soon be covered with plastic to reduce the force necessary to pull them through the soil, according to the Texas A&M College extension service.

School Principal Ewing L. Robertson predicts.

"We closed the 1961-62 school year with 425—up from a 350 starting enrollment — and expect to start this year close to previous ending enrollment," he explained.

Peak for the new school year is estimated at 460 pupils in grades kindergarten through six.

"When I first came here as a teacher in 1951, we had 200 pupils in all grades through the eighth," Robertson recalled. The seventh and eighth grade Palm Desert pupils now attend Jefferson school in Indio. Palm Desert is a portion of the big Indio Elementary School District.

New School

Sixth graders here will have one full class and a combination fifth and sixth grade class this fall. The full class will meet in the multi-purpose room, which had previously been service as a classroom before two new classrooms were put into service last fall.

"We hope that construction of a new elementary facility will begin sometime this year," the principal reported. The new school, if constructed during the coming school year on the 10-acre site purchased on Portola near the Dream Homes development here, will probably be used for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils.

The site for planned school expansion includes a 20-acre site for a new junior high school. No date for construction of that school has been projected.

Language Program

Curriculum is a top concern in this community's 13-teacher school informal Spanish training can begin in kindergarten.

"We have no formal language program, but we expect new district curriculum chief Gilbert Anderson to plan Spanish for the lower grades," Robertson said. He added that language instruction in the lower grades will be mandatory in California in 1964.

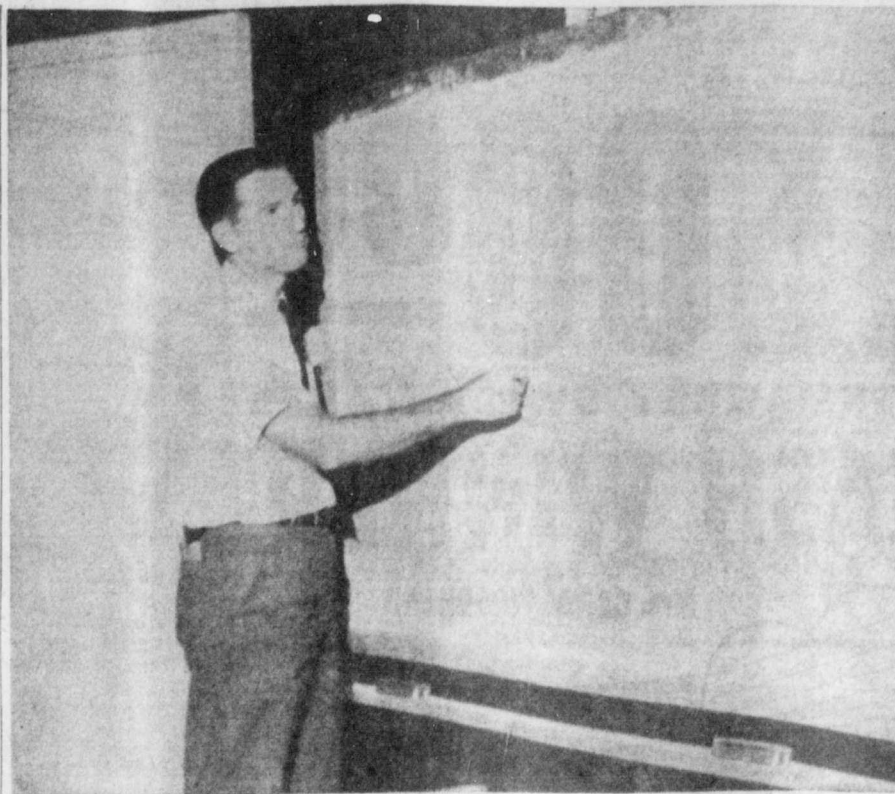

The language program began as a teacher project in kindergarten, taught by Mrs. Ray Rummolds. Pupils through the sixth grade now get information language orientation, including some vocabulary and phrases.

Sign Up Monday

Last year, four Palm Springs teachers participated in county-sponsored training in new math methods at Indio. In-service training is provided in a variety of professional subjects in the school. Kindergarten registration begins Monday, Robertson emphasized that a waiting list is expected after class space is filled.

Mothers will know for sure school has started Wednesday when lunch time quiet comes. The school lunch program will begin on opening day of school.

"We'll be all ready when our children arrive," the veteran teacher-administrator concluded.

OUTLINING seating plans for the sixth grade class which will meet in the Palm Desert elementary school's multi-purpose room is Ewing Robertson, school principal since 1955. The Palm Desert school will have an estimated 460 peak enrollment during the year. (Desert Sun Photo)

School Administrators in Spa Prepare Intensively

Administrators and supervisory personnel of the Palm Springs Unified School District today are in two weeks of intensive pre-school preparation.

A provocative discussion presided over by recently appointed Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Austin Sellery, stressed major studies of the Palm Springs Unified School District to be conducted this year.

"We need to examine our entire instructional school program, and also our need for not just a new junior high school, but our anticipated needs for the next four or five years," said Sellery.

Director of instructional services Mrs. Mary Mitchell reported on in-service training programs for teachers in the school district. Added this year to an established child study program will be one for elementary teachers in the study of Spanish. This new course was approved by the board of education in preparation to meeting a 1965 state requirement to have Spanish taught in the sixth grade.

In the area of curriculum, Mrs. Mitchell pointed out that in the field of social sciences there will be a curriculum development study made during the 1962-63 school year to carefully examine this course on the elementary level. Two subcommittees composed of teachers, administrators and outside consultants will make a thorough research study in this subject.

Pool Man Admits Guilt On Burglary

INDIO — A Palm Springs pool maintenance man, Thomas H. Monson, 29, charged with furnishing his home with high-priced items taken from homes at which he worked has pleaded guilty to two charges of burglary, second degree, in Judge John Neblett's Superior Court here.

Judge Neblett set sentencing for Monson for Sept. 21. The burglaries were reported by Palm Springs police to have taken place over a period of 17 months while Monson worked as a pool maintenance man. He reportedly furnished his home at 30247 San Antonio Drive, with the stolen goods as well as selling some to neighbors at cut-rate prices.

Palm Springs Police Det. James Teal, who arrested Monson, received special commendation from Chief A. G. (Gus) Kettmann for his work in the case, which involved what Kettmann called "one of the most strange and mysterious series of inside burglaries ever to occur in Palm Springs."

Minor Injuries In Car Accident

A Rancho Mirage man, Robert Craig, received minor injuries about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in a one-car accident at Araby Bridge on Highway 111.

Craig, who lives at 71-747 San Geronimo, was driving a 1961 sedan at the time of the accident, according to Palm Springs police report. The car was listed for major damage.

NLRB Asks Favorable Rule on 'Agency Shop'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has asked the Supreme Court to rule in favor of the "agency shop."

An agency shop arrangement requires that employees contribute to collective bargaining costs but does not force them to join a union.

The board appealed a test case on the subject involving a General Motors Corporation (GM) plant in Indiana.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals found the agency shop a violation of the Taft-Hartley labor law. The court therefore refused to enforce an NLRB order requiring GM to bargain on the issue with the United Automobile Workers (AFL-CIO).

After GM has a chance to reply, the court will decide whether it will hear the board's appeal and decide the case by written opinion.

The NLRB told the court that the agency shop "has been gaining increasing acceptance as a solution to one of the most troublesome issues in collective bargaining — the extent to which membership and/or financial support of the collective bargaining representative should be a condition of employment in the shop."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very curious day — one that ricochets between good and difficult aspects. "Not" good for taking chances or in furthering forceful actions where big deals or corporations are concerned, but fine for looking into the little details of personal and cooperative ventures that require exactness and precision. "Both" day and night observe the foregoing.

ARIES (Birthdays from Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — It is best to carry on with regular job efficiently even though new interests beckon forcefully. Be steady. Steer clear of over-optimistic person who wants to lead you in wrong direction.

TAURUS (Birthdays from Apr. 20 to May 20) — Be sure to get bills paid, whether for personal things or in connection with public affairs. Do this rather than spend much for pleasure. Show true devotion to loved one in P.M.

GEMINI (Birthdays from May 21 to June 21) — Your loyalty should be directed toward associates now rather than others first. Use tact. Be very calm and deliberate in giving your suggestions and proffering ideas. "Grow."

MOON CHILDREN (Birthdays from June 22 to July 21) — If you are not tactful with co-workers who are efficient, trouble ensues. Be cooperative instead. Try not to lose your temper. Health treatments are wise to take in P.M.

LEO (Birthdays from July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't look to others for applause but encourage them instead, since they are quite up to today. Use your time to improve appearance and health. Try not to be forceful with others.

VIRGO (Birthdays from Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Important you use wisdom and gentility in dealing with close ties now. Be encouraging and understanding. Promises made should be strictly carried out.

LIBRA (Birthdays from Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Nagging or undue criticism can lead to real trouble today, so be sure to avoid such. Take particular care while out driving. Correspond on a high level of consciousness.

SCORPIO (Birthdays from Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Don't make the mistake of thinking that you can purchase whatever you please. Remember others have feelings and pride, too. Be ethical. Use that fine smile. "Grow."

SAGITTARIUS (Birthdays from Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Try to control that temper which is a result of sheer frustration. Remember that self-mastery leads to success. Also, listen more to what others say. Be calm.

CAPRICORN (Birthdays from Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Important you rely on latent forces to see you through today, since you are in the throes of some worry. Have patience. Corollary to all pays big dividends.

AQUARIUS (Birthdays from Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be a do-voiced friend to those who today are in a muddle of some sort or another. It is a temporary limitation. Understanding is very much appreciated at this time.

PISCES (Birthdays from Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Try not to get on the nerves of a Big-wig or you lose support you now enjoy. See that your credit is good, too. Try to get out and do civic duty with enthusiasm.

If Your Child Is Born Today, He or she, will do best in life when you make it a point to teach that being overly critical of others can limit success and being overly self-righteous can lead others to dislike instead of like your progeny. However, be kind and understanding in order to eradicate these failings and see that a certain amount of discipline is meted out. A very colorful chart here!

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to "you". Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for October is now ready. Air Force Fires Secret Satellite VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—A secret satellite, believed to be of the Discoverer series, was launched Saturday by the Air Force from this Pacific missile range facility. The satellite employed a Thor-Agena B booster combination, the same type used by the Discoverer program. The Air Force declined to give details of the launch and would not confirm if the satellite attained orbit.

Governor Ready for Hard Fight

By JAMES C. ANDERSON

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Gov. Edmund G. Brown, down to his fighting weight, sets out today on his final drive to try to beat Richard M. Nixon and win re-election. "I've taken off 17 pounds and I'm at my fighting weight of 185," the 57-year-old Democrat said. "This will be the roughest, toughest campaign of my career — but I'm looking forward to the scrap."

During the weeks before the Nov. 6 election, the governor expects to travel more than 20,000 miles in automobiles, a special bus, airplanes and his own two feet. By the time he finishes a campaign he began last January, he will have visited all of the state's 58 counties.

He will try to get across two messages: —The record of a four-year program he calls "responsible liberalism." —The claim that Republicans in general and Nixon in particular have no constructive program themselves.

No Love For Nixon Brown has no love for Nixon. "Nixon annoys me," he once told this reporter. "He's a messy person. In fact, 'messy' is his favorite word. He uses it all the time."

Brown was nettled over Nixon's opening blast that he intended to "clean up the mess in Sacramento."

His personal feeling about the former vice president was quite apparent when he announced he would seek another four-year term.

"I will be a candidate because I can't turn down the chance to have a go at Richard Nixon," he said last January. "I don't like what he stands for and I don't like his reasons for wanting to be governor."

Admits Popularity Lower While Brown admits his personal popularity is lower than it was four years ago when he swept into office by more than one million votes, he seems confident he will win in November.

To tell his story in this campaign, he plans to make at least 140 speeches in the next two months and visit 23 counties. Unlike some politicians, Brown enjoys the rigors of campaign life. "Campaigning seems to sharpen my wits," he said recently. "It brings out the best in me."

A veteran of nearly a quarter of a century in public life, Brown goes full tilt from 7 in the morning to midnight. He has learned the secret of catching forty winks on a plane, a bus or in the back seat of a car. Yet in a matter of seconds, he slips into his shoes, runs his fingers through his thinning hair and steps out in style.

His only relaxation in campaigns is reading newspapers.

Advantages in Registration Brown believes that one of the main advantages he has in the campaign is the almost 3-2 edge the Democrats have in registration. But the fact that Republican Earl Warren was elected governor three times proves that Californians often vote for the man.

Perhaps for that reason, Brown frequently mentions Earl Warren in his speeches and one of the chief justice's sons, Earl Warren Jr., a Republican who recently re-registered as a Democrat, has become active in Brown's campaign.

State Medical Auxiliary Dates Palm Springs Meet

Conference
Calendared
Sept. 24-27

Local members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the California Medical Association are deep in plans for the roles they will play when state.

PRESIDING AT the September convale of the Woman's Auxiliary to the California Medical Association will be its president, Mrs. Floyd K. Anderson. (Amos Carr Photo) the auxiliary holds its annual fall conference here Sept. 24-27.

Mrs. Arthur T. Bailey of Palm Springs heads the committee making arrangements for the convale, which will be headquartered at the Palm Springs Riviera Hotel. In attendance will be more than 200 doctors' wives who are the 1962-63 auxiliary officers from 34 California counties, representing 7,400 members throughout the state.

Mrs. Floyd K. Anderson, state president, will conduct the meeting; among the chief speakers will be Howard Hassard, executive director of the California Medical Association, and Ed Clancy, the state association's director of public relations. Also featured will be Mrs. William G. Thuss, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Medical Association.

"This will be a working conference," Mrs. Bailey pointed out, "when plans will be made for the entire year."

In the three-day workshop, state officers will outline definite procedures for accomplishing the proposed goals set by the membership, Mrs. Bailey said. Priority will be given to plans for:

Raising funds for the American Medical Education-Research Foundation Association; staffing of mobile blood banks; safety counseling to the public through the distribution of first aid charts to all schools and women's clubs; sponsoring additional nursing scholarships; a training program for GEMS (Good Emergency Mother Substitutes); communication aides for the aging; and health careers for high school students.

Panel Talks

Appearing in a panel discussion will be Dr. E. Vincent Askey, Dr. Matthew Hosmer, Dr. Samuel Sherman, Dr. Malcolm Todd, and Paul Putnam of the Public Health League.

Major social event of the meeting will be a poolside cocktail party on the evening of Sept. 25 honoring Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Thuss, and wives of members of the advisory board.

Palm Springs members of the auxiliary making plans with Mrs. Bailey include Mrs. L. Bradford Ostrom, Mrs. J. Hayden Shamel, Mrs. Andrew Fitzmorris, and Mrs. Peter Borak. Also assisting are Mrs. Paul L. Saffo of Los Angeles, Mrs. J. B. Price of Orange County, Mrs. Berwyn Lawrence of San Bernardino County, and the Mesdames Harrison Silver and Van W. Kaye of Riverside.

GATHERED FOR a planning session at the hotel where the auxiliary meeting will be held are (from left) Mrs. L. Bradford Ostrom, Mrs. J. Hayden Shamel, Mrs. Arthur T.

Bailey, and Mrs. Andrew Fitzmorris. With the conference mapped out as a workshop, only one social event, a cocktail party, has been calendared.

'The Hula Hoop of Millinery' Plans To Revolutionize Women's Hat Industry

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Miss Jimmi York is a far-out fur hat designer helping to put millinery on the heads of women gone hatless for years.

"I'm just trying to revolutionize the millinery industry, that's all," said the designer-manufacturer, a newcomer to the field. "Most milliners are still making hats to go to church, that's why the industry's sick."

"Yet today, I'm told, 75 per cent of women's apparel is in the sports and casual wear categories...in there somewhere, there has to be a place for a hat. In short, I'm designing hats for women who don't wear hats."

She figures these are the chic young dressers between the ages of 18 and 35 to 40.

New Use For Furs
Miss York, a tall, smart-looking brunette born 34 years ago in Welch, W. Va., got into millinery because "I saw all those hundreds and hundreds of fur coats just sitting in that basement going to waste."

Her working world already was fashion. She had designed shoes for a firm operating chain of stores, and was working as an advertising copywriter for a New York specialty store.

Her job took her into the wholesale clothing market constantly, and it was thus that one day a furrier showed her a supply of raccoon, fox and opossum coats he couldn't sell.

She'd had a hunch that fur hats would fly high in fashion and there would be big demand for any that could be sold at medium instead of sky-high prices. The old coats offered the answer.

Rip out the linings, lay the fur flat, cut the pattern of the hat, sew the pieces together, re-line and wear. The first number she ran up was a shaggy, wig-type smothering the head in fur. She called it the hot-head.

That was three years ago. Today, she said in an interview, the hot-head had carried the firm, Fur Flyers, Inc., for its first two years. It sold over a quarter of a million dollars, she said.

"I was the hula hoop of the millinery business."

The first year, the firm cut up 5,000 coats. In all, she said, they have converted 20,000 coats since starting business.

All the furs are long hairs—the lynx, wolf, opossum, skunk and fox. A new hat in the line that she expects to be another best-seller is the Klondike Hood, in red, silver, blue or black fox. It bundles the head and wraps the throat and chin.

Learns From Old Movies

"I copied it from one Loretta Young wore in the movie 'Klondike' back in the '40s," she said. "I swear I must send Loretta one."

Many of her ideas come from old movies, or from old movie magazines. This fall, Miss York expanded her collection into knits and synthetics, many of them a natural for the ski set who already account for one third of her sales. One stocking cap knit is a 42-inch long tube. Wrap the excess around the throat as a muffler.

Now she's planning her first spring line in fabrics—"the Italians already have the straw business," she said practically.

She also has added a man to the staff, Lawrence K. Brady, president, to handle the business side while she concentrates on design and promotion.

"My advice to single girls is, it's tough to be a lady manufacturer," said Miss York. "Never go into business without a man. One of these days I'm going to write a book about my experiences. Naturally, it'll be called 'The Fur Flew.'"

LOWER CEILING

High, flat ceiling can be lowered and an exciting three-dimensional effect achieved by installing 1x8s across the ceiling in rafter style. Place them about 12 inches on center. Paint entire ceiling, including 1x8s, off-white.

When using whipped cream on pies or puddings, top with a bit of ground cinnamon or nutmeg.

Miss America Entries Lead Strict Lives

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—It's Miss America time again at this famed seaside resort and shortly before midnight next Saturday a new queen will realize a dream come true.

But from now until then, the 54 finalists in the beauty contest will lead spartan lives of self-denial and will be under the strictest supervision.

The rigid rules are an integral part of the Miss America tradition and a volunteer corps of Atlantic City matrons will be on duty to enforce them.

Here are some of the "don't's" the contestants are required to observe:

—They are not permitted to speak to any man, including members of their own families, unless a hostess (matron) is present.

—They are not allowed to dine with a man.

—No smoking in public.

—They are not permitted to enter any business establishment where liquor is served.

—And they are forbidden to have their pictures taken in swim suits while on the beach or boardwalk.

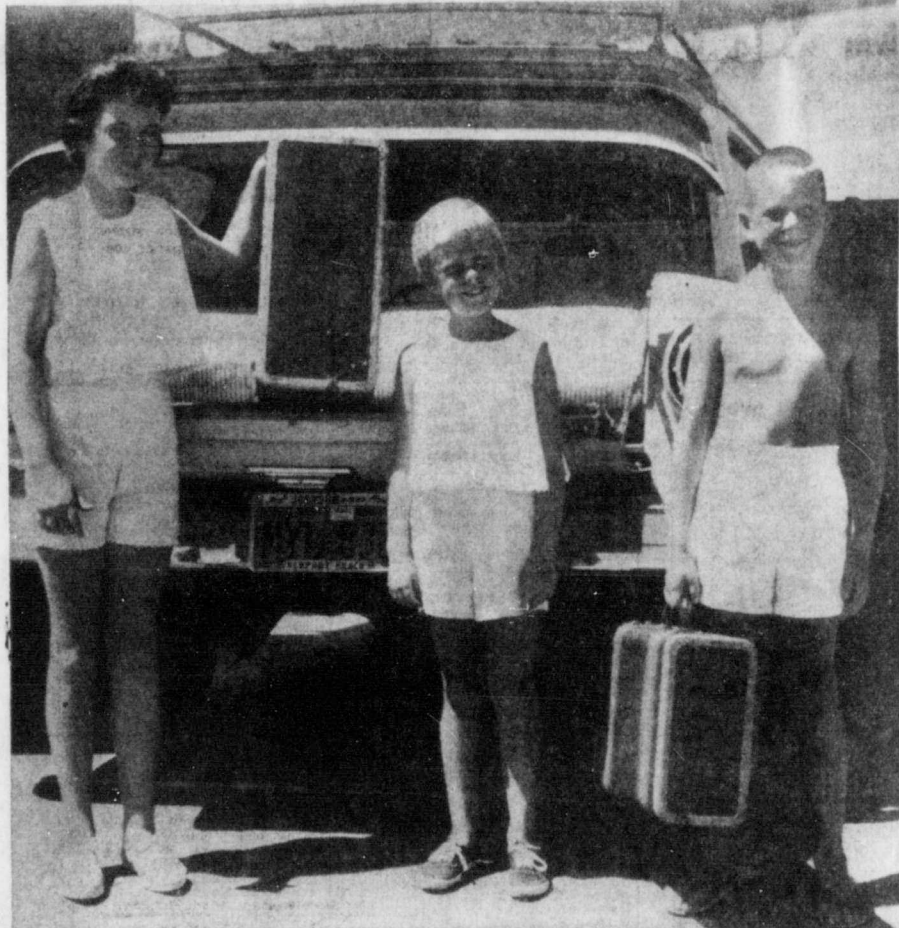

An officially supervised swim suit picture session, to be held on the sun deck of a hotel, is scheduled for Tuesday.

And for that, the girls were warned they must not wear strapless swim suits. Bikinis, naturally, also were forbidden.

The official opening of the finals began Monday with a three-hour registration and then the beauties will assembled in Convention Hall for pageant rehearsals.

Who's Back in the Springs?

'SUMMER'S OVER' wail Debby, Joni, and Roddy Lacy as they unload the station wagon on their return from the beach. The trio, children of Mr. and Mrs. Hal L. Lacy, have spent most of their time at Newport Beach, their former home, returning only to get ready for the opening of school next Monday.

Parties Hosted At Sun Town Trailer Park

The season is beginning to get under way at the desert's trailer parks. One at Cathedral City, the Sun Town, has been particularly active, starting with a potluck supper attended by about 50 guests from neighboring trailer parks.

Tables, attractively decorated by the women residents, were set up in the ballroom, and following the supper, Spencer Cromwell introduced Nancy Davis, Sun Town's new social director.

Later in the week, Sun Town hosted a shuffleboard tournament with 30 guests from other parks. Scoring high were Ethel Coolidge, Vera Cutter, and Earl Merrit of Ramon Trailer Park, and Louis Tourville of Sun Town.

CHARWOMAN STOPS THEFT
LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Ivy Cottis, a 55-year-old charwoman, saw a gang of thieves lifting her boss' safe into a truck. Enraged, she sprang into action. "I'm not moving," she shouted, jumping on top of the safe in front of the gambling club where she is employed. The thieves drove off without the safe. "They must have been scared of me," Mrs. Cottis said as she relaxed with a cup of tea.

PRIVATE PAWNS KILT
EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — Military authorities said Pvt. John Noonan, 20, pawned his kilt to finance an absence without leave. He was ordered dishonorably.

CANINES COUNTED
CHICAGO (UPI) — Dog lovers of the nation have extended the comfort of hearth and home to about 26.5 million canines, reports Chemetron Corporation, producer of veterinary medical equipment. The firm also estimates there are about 30 million cats in the country, though stressing that the population figure for these more inclined-to-roam animals is more difficult to establish.

discharged from the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Monday.

READY FOR WINTER
NEW YORK (UPI) — While New Yorkers sweltered in 90 degree temperatures Monday, the city's Department of Sanitation made preparations for next winter. Ignoring the heat and humidity, Sanitation Commissioner Frank J. Lucia inspected two new snow melters to be used to combat snowstorms.

Relief as Honorable Career?

Relief is gradually becoming an honorable career in America.

Who is tampering with the soul of America? For nations have souls. They have collective personalities. People who think well of themselves, collectively, exhibit eagerness, enthusiasm and morale. When nations cease believing in themselves, when they regard their institutions with cynicism and their traditions with flippancy, they will not long remain great nations. When they seek learning without effort and wages without work they are beginning to stagger. When they become hedonistic and pleasure-oriented, when their Boy Scouts on their 14 mile hikes start to hitch rides, there's trouble ahead.

Where payola becomes a way of life, expense account cheating common, and union goonery a fiercely defended right, that nation is in danger.

The welfare state is a pretty fair life, if you have neither conscience nor pride. The politicians will weep over you. The state will give a mother a bonus for her illegitimate children, and if she neglects them sufficiently she can save enough out of her ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) payments to keep herself and her boy friend in wine and gin.

Nothing is your fault. When the city fathers of an harassed community like Newburgh (NY) suggest that able-bodied welfare clients might sweep the streets, the liberal editorialists arise as one man, and denounce them for their medieval cruelty.

The healthy man who chooses to loaf on unemployment compensation is not a defender of human rights. . . . Let's look at the distribution of public largesse and if, far from alleviating human misery, it is producing the cloth and irresponsibility that intensify it, let's get it fixed.

—Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Tulsa Tribune

Wanted: Good Old Rip-Roaring Debate

That furore over the cancellation of the Nixon - Brown series of televised debates brings up a question—what's wrong with debates, the good old-fashioned kind?

The American public likes them. When Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas toured the length and breadth of Illinois debating the issues of their day, they aroused the greatest public enthusiasm. The series has become a classic.

It could be that the old-fashioned holds barred style of debate has degenerated and the public is not missing much with the absence of a verbal duel between Pat

Brown and Dick Nixon. The debates between President Kennedy and Nixon two years ago were rather pallid affairs and, as former President Truman said: "just press conferences on the air and not very good ones at that."

We believe the principals should reconsider their stand and become less coy about going to the forensic mat.

A good old-time rough and tumble, no quarter asked or given, debate could be of the utmost interest to California voters if done in the historic, classic Lincoln-Douglas style.

Other Editors

President Kennedy's recent announcement that the United States will not play sucker again in the game of "funny money" was reassuring news to people with money in the bank, for pensioners and the insured. Rumors had been persisting in Europe that we were devaluing the dollar. European governments and individuals have been exchanging dollars for gold. That is a loss-proof hedge against dollar devaluation.

This hedge is not available, however, to U.S. citizens. Except for jewelry, watches, dental fillings and the like, U.S. citizens are forbidden to own gold. The lucky ones with dollars in the bank are stuck with the dollars.

Dollar devaluation is a form of currency manipulation by juggling the price of gold. Franklin D. Roosevelt last did that in January, 1934, despite platform and personal pledges to the contrary. His early campaign silence in 1932 on the subject of devaluation caused President Hoover to make it a political issue. Said Hoover:

"Tampering with the currency has been a perennial policy of the Democratic Party. The dangers of it are imbedded in this election."

The new move may mean that Kennedy has shorn himself of influential brain-trusters who have dealt from the Keynesian economic deck. Keynesian theorists and apologists have since World War I tried to saddle us with a guilty conscience for our tardy entrance in World War I and our high standard of living during subsequent years. Hence they have tried to convince us that we are honor bound to support the world.

It is nice to know that the dollar still will be worth forty-odd cents.

—Beverly Hills Citizen-News

HOLMES ALEXANDER:

Humanity's Progress Comes Slowly

WASHINGTON — "Heartily know," wrote Emerson, "when half-gods go, the gods arrive." You could call this aphorism the Kennedy Administration's hope and motto for the multi-billion dollar Alliance For Progress in Latin America. Happily, if the demi-gods of military dictatorship ever depart from Central and South America and the Caribbean islands, the true duties of democracy will take their place. It is a consummation greatly to be desired.

But it is fatuous to believe that anything of the sort can take place in the Sixties. If we hope in our lifetimes to change the order of four centuries, we are unrealistic. Our programs for economic and political uplift will be frustrated. Our policies will collapse. We will be left holding a large and empty bag. Moreover, if we persist at home in an arbitrary downgrading of the American military, on the mushy intellectualist premise that American men - in uniform are incipient dictators, we are closing our eyes to American history.

Military Proven Faithful

Two conspicuous presences stand out against these assumptions which the Administration seems to hold. The first presence is the living proof that American military officers, bred to democracy and civilian control, are faithful servants and not enemies of representative government and of the status quo. The second is that, with the world at war between Communism and anti-Communism, the foreign military is almost everywhere on the side of the latter.

Must we call the roll of American military heroes from Washington through Jackson and Lee to prove again the loyalty of such men to American principles? The question should answer itself. Did Roosevelt hesitate to put Gen. Leslie Groves (whose book, "Now It Can Be Told," tells all about it), in charge of the Manhattan Engineering Project for the development of the atomic weapon? Did Truman hold back in using General Marshall as Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense, although in the latter case he had to have the law changed to allow it? Was there anything dictatorial in Gen. Eisenhower's two presidential terms? Can President Kennedy go wrong in calling on Gens. Schriever, Norstad, Clay or Admiral Rickover to militarize our programs in Space?

Free World Faltered

The second presence which cannot be denied is the living proof that almost everywhere the Free World has faltered, the military men have stepped in to hold the line. We may not like generalissimos in power, but Spain and Nationalist China would have been gone long ago without Franco and Chiang Kai-shek. Unwilling as the State Department is to admit it, General De Gaulle has saved France. General Ayub Khan has saved Pakistan. Colonel Nasser has prevented Egypt from moving a lot farther than we would like from the Western orbit in hatred of Britain and France, which once sat on the necks of the Middle East countries.

As to Latin America, the military has moved to power in several dominant nations there. It is all very well to quake with the thought of what happens next, but Communism will not come as long as the Armies are in charge because the Armies are by subject to political graft but they are capitalist. We have excellent reason to believe that if Communist China ever shakes off its Red regime, it will be because the Army has come to the succor of the starving and regimented Chinese people. Even Khrushchev fears his military leaders.

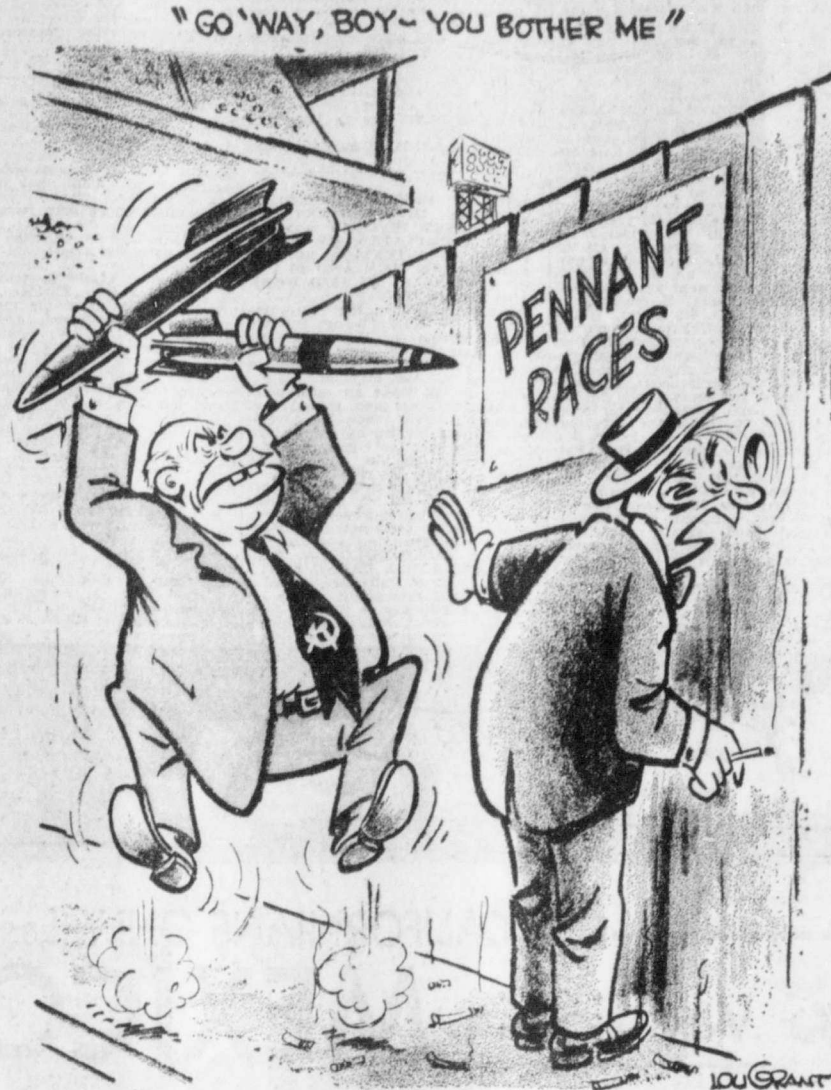

Junta Can't Come Here
The United States and the United Kingdom are the only major powers where it "can't happen" that a military junta might supercede the elected governments. A highly - readable forthcoming novel, "Seven Days in May" by Fletcher Knebel and Charles Bailey II, sets up a fictitious situation ten years from today when a Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman tries to replace a seemingly weak President. But the authors end by showing that such a catastrophe just isn't in the American character, thanks mostly to men trained in our service academies.

But in Latin America the military junta is so much in character that it happens again and again. Regrettably, any hope of getting American business to invest in these countries almost depends upon the stable governments under the trusteeships of the generals, dishonest though they may be by our standards. The demi-gods are with us for a long while to come. Such is the way of our imperfect world.

TIME has marched on since those days.

There's a lot of difference between the Palm Springs of then and now. There's also a lot of difference between The Sun of then and now.

But I'm sure glad I listened to Carl.

THIS SIDE Of The Sun

R. F. "Phat" GRAETTINGER

I almost forgot.
It's time to remember
Two decades ago
This month of September.

People are always telling me that when I reminisce it shows I'm in my dotage. I looked up that word and it made me mad. I didn't like Noah Webster's definition. That's Noah Webster, not the guy who built the Ark. I'm not THAT old. But just think, if Noah, the Ark pilot, hadn't invited those two flies to join the cruise, we'd now be enjoying life without a swatter.

ANYWAY, what I almost forgot was a most important anniversary this week. The observance of a day when, next to being born and getting married, the best thing that ever happened to me occurred.

It was 20 years ago that I lent an accepting ear to an offer by Carl Barkow, founder and the publisher of The Desert Sun, and came here to be gainfully employed.

THAT was in September, 1942, and I came here expecting to stay eight months because Carl told me that the town folded in the summer and they wouldn't need me after Memorial Day. There wouldn't be enough work to go around.

But came Memorial Day and the town was full of soldiers and jumping. There was plenty of news, thus work, and that original eight months is now in its 21st year.

I came here from the coastal plane country in the days when vests were still de rigueur. (That's French for hep.) And I was wearing one the first day I went to work. The maximum was 112.

I GUESS wearing a vest in September made me a suspicious character. Because a big Jim Maynard who was one-fifth of the police force in those days, numerically, and three-fifth in size, saw me belaboring the typewriter, the only one we had then in the old Sun office at 290 North P. Canyon Drive, and dropped in to see me.

He said it was a social call to get acquainted but I think he was investigating. There were rumors that the war boom was attracting unsavory types to town.

THAT VEST got pretty hot in a couple of days and Carl Lykken made a sale when I bought my first short-sleeved sport shirt just about 20 years ago today. It was cool. At least, cooler. But I felt sort of undressed when I sashayed out in public the first time.

I threw away my green eyeshade, at that time the status symbol of an editor but now worn just by poker players and pool room hustlers.

I became a Villager.

TIME has marched on since those days.

There's a lot of difference between the Palm Springs of then and now. There's also a lot of difference between The Sun of then and now.

But I'm sure glad I listened to Carl.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN:

Dear Abby . . .

DEAR ABBY: Is there a housewives' union? If not, let's start one. I work 365 days a year and not a dime for overtime. Do I get a two weeks' vacation like my husband? Not on your life! If we go away for a vacation he finds a place with a kitchen attached and I still have to cook, do dishes and take care of the children. When do we kitchen police get a rest? Only when we are in the hospital having a baby, and then we're too sick to enjoy it.

IN FAVOR OF A UNION

DEAR IN: Husbands need to be gently needed into giving their wives occasional vacations without the children! It's marvelous for the morale. Get organized, Lady. You don't need a union, you need a "more perfect union" with your husband.

DEAR ABBY: I know you've heard of men with roaming hands. Well, I know a man with "roaming feet." We eat at the same lunch counter in the building where I work, and this fellow always manages to get the stool next to me at the counter.

DEAR WE: A man who "has a job on Wall Street" and wears a motorcycle jacket to work. (He has a job on Wall Street.) He reads your column, and believes in you. How can he be helped?

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, my parents told me that as far as they were concerned I was dead. You see, they are very orthodox in their religion and I married a boy of a different faith. We have been married three years and they have made no effort to see us. I heard from an aunt that my father is very ill. I want to go to see him, but don't want the door slammed in my face. What should I do?

DEAR HEART-BROKEN: Go to see your father. The door might open. If it doesn't—you'll know you tried.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Senate Report Seems Somewhat Incomplete

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At three-month intervals, the U.S. Senate publishes a list of its officers and employees showing how much each was paid during the quarterly period.

Almost everyone, except maybe the officers and employees, thinks this open door policy toward the payroll is a good thing. I certainly don't wish to quibble, but to me the list seems incomplete. I think it should reveal not only what the officers and employees earn, but what they do to earn it.

The list, to be sure, includes brief job descriptions and in some cases these are self-explanatory. It's easy, for instance, to guess what an "inserting machine operator" does.

The Senate has seven inserting machine operators who were paid $1,178.85 last quarter. At this time of year, there is always a lot of inserting to be done.

Raises Questions

In certain other cases, however, the job titles raise more questions than they answer, leaving a reader of the list feeling vaguely disquieted and unfulfilled.

I have spent considerable time seeking to surmise how John M. Price earned his $1,421.88. Price is listed as the "laborer in charge of private passage."

During a congressional session, many private bills come up for passage. But it seems unlikely there would be a laborer in charge of them.

More likely it means that Price is in charge of a private passageway somewhere on the premises. Presumably, he labors to keep it private and, if he does his job well, the public will never know. According to the list, the "ladies retiring room" has two "female attendants," each paid $1,118.10. One is listed as Mary E. Scroggins and the other is James A. Mullally.

Mistake Obvious

Obviously, there is a mistake there. Mary E. Scroggins should have been listed as the "male attendant" in the "gentlemen's retiring room."

I was likewise puzzled by the job titles of George Smith and Louis A. Queen. Smith is listed as "wagonmaster" and Queen as "assistant wagonmaster."

I have spent a lot of time around the Capitol in recent years and I don't recall ever seeing a wagon on the grounds.

I have often heard it said that certain senators are "still living in the horse and buggy days." Most of them, however, drive Cadillacs to work.

The only thing I can figure out is that the wagons are kept in the private passage that Price is in charge of.

Angels Fight Back, Win 7-6

ANGELS' SECOND baseman Billy Moran pops his bubble gum as he throws on to first base in an attempt for a double play in the ninth inning of the game with the N.Y. Yankees Tuesday at Yankee stadium. New York's Tom Tresh tries to delay

Moran's throw. Yankees' Elston Howard hit a grounder to shortstop Joe Koppe who flipped to Moran for the force at second. The throw to first was not in time. Angels won, 7-6. (UPI Telephoto)

Battle NY With Six Run Inning

NEW YORK (UPI)—Their chances of taking the American League pennant improving with each game, the starry-eyed Los Angeles Angels again battled the New York Yankees today.

Dean Chance (12-7) carried the pitching load for the Angels against the Yankee's top winning hurler, Ralph Terry (20-10).

The Angels, braced by their spectacular 7-6 triumph over the Yankees Tuesday, shot for the four-game series clincher today. Los Angeles held a 2-1 series edge going into the game and trailed by 3½ in the pennant race.

Held scoreless for six innings and trailing by a score of 4-0, the Angels rattled the league leaders by driving in six runs in the seventh.

Two-run Error

Then Rookie Bob Rodgers singled in the ninth after New York tied the contest to project the Angels right back into the pennant picture.

Lee Thomas cracked a two-run homer in the seventh in which the Angels batted around and scored their six runs.

With one out Felix Torres singled off starter Whitey Ford and Lee Thomas' homer halved the Yankees' lead to 4-2. Then Ken Hunt drew a walk as did Earl Averill. Billy Moran sent Ford to the showers with a run-producing single.

Relief pitcher Marshall Bridges yielded a bases-filling single to Leon Wagner, and when Tony Kubek fumbled Leo Burke's double play bouncer, two more runs came in to make it 5-4 in favor of the Angels. The final tally of the inning scored on Rodgers' infield out.

Winning Debut

Victim of Yankee-like Angel finish was Bud Daley, who came in for Bridges in the eighth. Julio Navarro, who came up from the minors only the day before, added another feather in Angel General Manager Fred Haney's trading cap as he gained his first major league victory after pitching the final 1-3 innings.

Don Lee started for Los Angeles, followed by Dan Osinski, Jack Spring and Navarro. Navarro came in after Cleve Bover's homer off Spring in the eighth with the score at 6-6. Then Navarro preserved the Angels' lead in the ninth by striking out dangerous John Blanchard.

The Angels got their go-ahead run on singles by Joe Koppe and Rodgers in the ninth.

STARTS AT 6:30 P.M.

Final Fishing Derby Of Season Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening will be the last time local and visiting anglers will be able to wet a hook and try their luck in the Palm Springs Golf Course lake, for it will be the final and third 'Fishing Derby' of the season.

Last minute arrangements have been completed by the co-sponsors, the City Recreation and Special Events department and the P.S. Golf Course personnel, and fishing will begin at 6:30 p.m. for all between the ages of six and 80 years of age.

More than a 1,000 jumpin' trout are in the golf course lake waiting to nibble at a well baited hook of some lucky person on the bank of the lake. According to the sponsors, there are some good size trout in the lake with some of them weighing over four pounds. In the two previous 'Fishing Derbies', several hundred fishermen, including entire families, have enjoyed the evening of fishing. Many have brought picnic lunches along and have had a gala time during an evening of outing together. Grills have been set up along the banks of the lakes for those wishing to cook their picnic dinners.

Like the first two events, admission to the 'Fishing Derby' will be 25 cents for children, 75 cents for adults, and $1.50 for the entire family. All fish caught during the evening will be cleaned at the lake by experienced personnel, the sponsors announced.

RAIN DELAYS Tennis Meet FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — A steady rain forced postponement today of all play in the U.S. National Tennis Championships and set back the final round from next Sunday until Monday.

Today's program was rescheduled for Thursday. U.S. Lawn Tennis Association officials said the entire program now was so far behind schedule because of the weather that the final round could not be played next Sunday, as originally planned.

Young Promising Boxer Eyes Lightweight Title

HOUSTON (UPI) — Steve Freeman is off to a speedy start on his professional boxing career with an eye on the world lightweight championship and the big-time backing to get a shot at it. Freeman, who finished his 75-fight amateur training as National AAU featherweight champion, looks completely out of place in a dingy boxing gym.

A 19-year-old blond from nearby Lake Jackson, Steve is under contract to oilman K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers and part-owner of the Houston Colts.

"You can't imagine what a break it is for a boxer to have someone like Mr. Adams backing you," says the 5-foot, 8-inch, 128-pounder.

Adams signed Steve to a contract on the condition that the young boxer stay in college while he is breaking into the pro fight game. Adams pays his tuition to the University of Houston.

"I have every advantage it takes to make it," admits Freeman. "I hope I can make a good run in the featherweight division in the next year and be ready to move up with the lightweights."

Still Growing "No one is trying to get me to keep my weight down. I'm growing and eating. My natural size should be about 135 when I mature and the lightweight class is one of the most popular."

Few young boxers are lucky enough to be able to work out regularly with a former champion of their division. Steve spars with long-time lightweight champion Joe Brown in afternoon sessions at Kings Korner, Houston's mecca for boxers.

"I really respect him," says Freeman. "That old man is still fast and is really smart. I hope I can learn some of what he knows about boxing."

Freeman turned pro this summer and knocked out his first two opponents, both in the first round. He passed his first real test in impressive style when he won a six-round decision from tough Bobby Gregory of San Antonio in mid-August.

A flashing right decked Gregory in the first round, Freeman staggered his opponent again in the second round but tired in the later rounds.

Expect Fast Progress Adams expects Freeman to progress rapidly but does not want to overmatch him. The wealthy sportsman wants veteran manager Lou Viscusi and trainer Bill Gore in Steve's corner.

"Stevie already has a lot of experience with all those amateur bouts," Adams says.

Freeman caught the boxing fever from an older brother who had participated in regional Golden Gloves. Steve had his first amateur fight at 15.

This year, he lost in the featherweight finals of the National Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago to George Foster of Cincinnati. Later at the AAU championships in Cincinnati, Foster moved up to the lightweight division and won that title, and Freeman won the featherweight crown.

Chargers Depart For Denver Tilt

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Injuries to rookie tackle Merlin Olsen, all-NFL offensive end Jim Phillips, and defensive tackle Urban Henry today were the center of concern in the Los Angeles Ram camp.

Olsen, the highly touted Utah State rookie who started last week's game with Cleveland, suffered a shoulder injury and appeared a doubtful starter for the coming San Francisco Forty-Niner game.

Phillips is still trying to shake a pulled muscle that kept him out of the Cleveland game.

Bo (No-Hit) Belinsky Traded to Athletics

NEW YORK (UPI) — Irrepressible Bo Belinsky is leaving Los Angeles for Kansas City—but he's not going quietly.

The brash 25-year-old rookie southpaw, who shot to overnight prominence by pitching a no-hitter against the Baltimore Orioles on May 5, did a slow burn today upon learning that he is to be traded to the Athletics by the Angels at the end of this season.

"If they think they're going to sell me down the river, they've got another guess coming," he snapped.

"This club (the Angels) have made me some promises. I've got money coming to me and they're not going to stall me around on it, either."

"After I pitched that no-hitter, they said they were going to take care of me. But they never have."

"They're sure thanking me for what I did for them, aren't they," he said bitterly.

Belinsky, who has won eight games for the Angels and lost nine, will be sent to the Athletics following the conclusion of this season to complete a July 21 deal in which Los Angeles obtained pitcher Dan Osinski.

The Angels secured Osinski from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, which has a working agreement with Kansas City. In return, the A's were paid cash and promised a player to be named later. Belinsky was the player agreed upon.

Practice Fairly Common It is fairly common practice to agree upon a player who is to be delivered at a later date, and it has been done before by all major league clubs, but Belinsky wonders why it has to be him.

"I thought I helped this club and I'm still doing all I can to help," he said. "It's hard to believe they'd let me go."

In a way, the Angels feel they are doing so for his own good.

Drafted from Rochester of the International League for $25,000 by the Angels last winter, the good-looking, dark-haired six-footer two Belinsky immediately took to the bright lights of Los Angeles. He was warned for some of his after-hour escapades early in the season and then fined $250 by manager Bill Rigney in June for breaking curfew.

Rigney meted out the fine after Belinsky became involved in an argument with a girl companion, who went to the police and complained she had been struck.

Keeps In Shape Due to all the publicity he has received, most fans look on him as something of a character. He is not a drinker, however, he stays in excellent physical shape and is quite popular, not only with his teammates, but also with rival players.

Belinsky's pending transfer to Kansas City was not a punitive measure by the Angels, who feel he has a good baseball future but would be better off pitching in another city.

Osinski, a 27-year-old right-hander who looks like one of the best relievers in the league, was sought by seven other clubs besides the Angels, including the Cardinals, Tigers and Mets. Since coming to the Angels six weeks ago, he has won five games and saved four others.

TWO DOWN AND TWO TO GO

Dodgers Square Series With S.F. Giants, 5-4

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Quiet-spoken Ron Perranoski was the latest Los Angeles Dodgers hero today for coming through with a clutch relief pitching performance that brought the league leaders a key 5-4 win over the San Francisco Giants.

Manager Walt Alton was down to only a pair of relief pitchers, Perranoski and Phil Ortega, because of illness and injury in his bullpen. And with starter Pete Richert wild, he had to call on Perranoski.

Although he gave up a two-run homer to Jose Pagan in the ninth, Perranoski retained his composure and struck out the Giants two top sluggers, Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda to retain the victory Tuesday night.

The victory increased the Dodgers' lead over the Giants to 3½ games with two more contests remaining between the clubs in their final series of the season.

Podres vs. Marichal In tonight's game, the Dodgers go with southpaw Johnny Podres, 12-10, while the Giants base their hopes on Juan Marichal, 17-10, in what could be a close pitching duel.

"We just played badly all night," Giant manager Alvin Dark said with a sigh of disappointment. "When you play bad ball you lose. Billy Pierce didn't have his usual good stuff and that hurt us."

Three of the four Giant runs came as a result of homers with catcher Tom Haller hitting a solo four-bagger in the fourth inning. But the Giants lost a big opportunity in the third inning when Dodger starter Richert loaded the bases on three walks only to have Felipe Alou ground out to retire the side.

The Giants had eight hits to seven for the Dodgers and left nine men stranded. The Dodgers got five runs on seven hits and left only four men on the bases. SAN FRANCISCO 000 110 002-4
